Election of United States Senator.

It is surprising how eager some Democrats are to support Judge Goff for United States senator. There was a time when Democrats in the legislature had an opportunity to support the right involving the seating of General Goff as governor of West Virginia, to which position the people of West Virginia had chosen him.

The difference between then and now is great. The idea of supporting Judge Goff now is based on a desire to do something which, it is believed, will make trouble in the Republican ranks. If Judge Goff had been in the field and likely to be made senator these same exuberant Democrats would have cast about for some Republican to serve the purpose of disintegrating the Republican party.

The answer to all the Democratic scheming on this line is that Judge Goff is not open to their blandishments. He is not in the field, and has not for a moment thought of being in it. When he gets ready to take part once more in politics the Democratic politicians will be apprised of the fact in good time, and they will not receive cheerfully the news that will gladden the hearts of the Republicans of West Virginia.

Meanwhile it may as well be understood that the Republican majority in the legislature is quite capable of discharging the duty of selecting a nominee for the Republican senate. This is one of the things that this Republican majority is there for.

It will be a novel and pleasing sensation to the Republicans of West Virginia when they behold a Republican legislature in session. And "there are others" to come.

A Batch of Incompetents.

Friends of the administration say that J. Pierpont Morgan, representing the syndicate that took the second $50,000,000 loan, came to Washington and demanded the head of Secretary Carlisle, giving as a reason that he is playing hob with the finances of the country; and the same friends of the administration say that the President cursed Morgan and his crowd and gave them leave to do their worst.

Mr. Morgan denies the story and the administration people say it is true. If Mr. Morgan did say what he is quoted as saying, he told the truth. If he did not say it, it is true nevertheless. Secretary Carlisle has proved himself incapable of conducting the great business confided to him by the President.

It is not likely, however, that he can be forced out of the cabinet, for the President has endorsed all the secretary has done and thereby made Mr. Carlisle's acts his own. The whole outfit is incompetent. If Secretary Carlisle is to go, the rest of them should keep him company.

PRESIDENT CLEVELAND should have Senator Hill searched at once to see if he has any deadly weapons concealed about his gifted person.

Oleo's Mistake.

The supreme court of Massachusetts holds that the sale of colored oleomargarine is illegal, although the purchaser be aware that the commodity is colored, for some other purchaser may be deceived into thinking he is buying butter.

If from the beginning the manufacture of oleomargarine had sold on its own merits the probability is that by this time it would have an established and honored place in trade.

Having been sent out in the main under false colors, oleomargarine has got a bad name, got the law against it and a large part of the public down on it.

The Daily Oil Review, of Sistersville, has made its appearance. It gives promise of good work in a good field.

If China wishes to save her baggage wagons she must make haste to stop up to the captain's office and settle. The Japs are impatient to get their hands on the Chinese teals and have besides some idea of a goodly slice of celestial territory. Some good friend should warn the emperor of China that in the past few months Japan has set up a buzz-saw.

Senatorial Election in North Carolina.

At the coming session of the North Carolina legislature two United States senators will be elected, one to take the place of Senator Ransom, the other to take the place of Senator Jarvis, appointed to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Senator Vance.

There is an understanding between the Populists and the Republicans that each shall have one of the prizes. This arrangement the Democrats would like to knock in the head. They have accordingly proposed to help the Populists elect both senators. The Populists say that they will keep faith and carry out the original programme.

The obvious purpose of the Democrats is to set by the ears the Populists and the Republicans, who in the late election made common cause against the Democrats. In North Carolina as in West Virginia the Democratic scheme is to divide and conquer.

The contest for the speakership of the West Virginia house has been conducted good-naturedly up to date. It is to be hoped that it may continue so to the end.

A Cheerful Neighbor.

Rev. Frank Mullally, of New York, is a preacher of an original turn. He has no congregation and does not think it necessary to hire a hall. He preaches from his front door step, and he has a cheerful habit of delivering his sermons whenever the spirit moves him. If he thinks he has a message to deliver at midnight he ascends the door step pulpit and cuts loose.

The neighbors threaten to move away, but this does not in the least disturb the Rev. Frank Mullally. Property owners in the neighborhood may conclude that it would be cheaper to build a church for this zealous preacher than to allow him to go on until he empties their houses. It has been shown in New York that one preacher can wield a very great influence.

If Secretary Hoke Smith has resolved to do better by the veteran soldiers this year he has neglected to give public notice of the reform. He could do a good deal better without attaining perfection.

For Good Health.

Dr. Cyrus Edson, who has a way of saying things so that the common run of people can understand them, makes some useful and reasonable suggestions with regard to the care of health. Persons who like to think they do better with cotton than with woolen underwear in winter may not like to be told that they are making a mistake, but this is what Dr. Edson says with force.

For the prevention of colds nothing is better, he says, than wool next the skin. Add to this dry feet, moderate and wholesome diet, plenty of rest and regular diet, and there will be pretty good protection through the winter. A good conscience and an even temper will help. And the poet saith:
Joy and temperance and repose
Shut the door on the doctor's nose.

CHARITABLE New York persons will pay the striking cloakmakers a dollar a day to shovel snow that they may earn their bread. The charity will be well bestowed. When those strikers are at work they put in long hours for wretched pay, and aside from the merits of the strike they are human beings who need food.

The Revolution in New York.

For the first time in twenty-two years New York city has a Republican mayor, and for the first time in twelve years the state has a Republican governor. Best of all there is a Republican legislature to support these executives and to give expression to the aspiration of the people for better government in state and city.

A revolution has taken place in the state of New York, a commonwealth upon which the ravenous wolves of politics thought they had a hold for all time. They had everything they could ask, except the people. Lacking that element of strength they have been driven from power. Their fall should be a warning to politicians for all time to come.

EVERY European port is closed against our cattle. There is no good reason for this and the President has a remedy at hand. He can prohibit the importation of the products of every country that thus discriminates against us, and he should not be slow to use the authority. Europe has some corns of her own to be stepped on.

MESSRS. JOHN A. HUTCHINSON, of Wood county, and N. E. Whitaker, of Ohio county, announce their candidacy for the United States senate. Messrs. George C. Sturgis, of Monongalia, John B. Floyd, of Kanawha, and Stephen B. Elkins, of Randolph, have already been announced. So far as the Intelligencer is aware there are no other avowed candidates, although there are more who could on short notice place themselves in the lighting's way.

BREAKFAST BUDGET.

Iron, through its use for electrical purposes, seems to have developed a new quality, magnetic fatigue. In tests made of transformers lately in London to ascertain the open circuit loss, it has been found that the loss increased steadily for the first 200 days until it reached a fairly constant value of 40 per cent more than at starting.

Crawford county (O.) comes to the front with a bovine freak. A calf was born on the farm of Martin Spatz that had two distinct heads, no tail and both hind legs were solid bone, without the sign of a joint at the knee.

a resistance equal to plates of 9-13 inches made by the old process. The plates were struck without injury by five shots each from six-inch and eight-inch guns.

The "Feast of Asess" was formerly held January 14, to commemorate the flight into Egypt. There are still extant several rituals of this festival. One, of Beauvais, in France, orders the priest to pray three times and the congregation to respond each time in a similar manner.

It is proposed to establish a telephone line between England and Holland. The London chamber of commerce and the Netherlands chamber of commerce are trying to ascertain if the time is yet ripe for the undertaking.

Congress has never legislated on the subject of a national holiday to recur from year to year; hence even the Fourth of July is not a holiday made legal by the enactment of a congressional law.

CURRENT HUMOR.

They tell this story of an absent-minded professor in the University of Pennsylvania. He was writing at his desk one evening when one of his children entered. "What do you want?" he asked. "I cannot be disturbed now," replied the child. "Never mind now," as he instantly resumed writing, "tomorrow morning will do as well."—Philadelphia Call.

"Why," asked the philosopher, "why is it that a man—the noblest created object—why is it that a man should have such doubts of his ability to win a woman's affection, when he considers the success in that line of a pop-eyed, pudding-shaped, pretzel-tailed pug dog?" But the assembled listeners answered him not.—Indianapolis Journal.

The French Revolution.

Written for the Intelligencer.
In calmest day with sunshine warm
That rests above the peaceful land
Holds, as it were, in clutched hand
The elements of wrath and storm.

A people, by the self-same breath
That rules the storm, hold strength of wrath;
The tempest comes, and every path
Is swept by hurricanes of death.
